

Troy Technical Institute Faculty to Be Dismissed

The entire faculty of Troy Technical Institute, community college of Rensselaer County, has been notified it will be dismissed from temporary appointment Oct. 15, in what has been termed a "paring down" of the school budget.

The notification of dismissal received yesterday, promised that eight members of the present staff of 19 would be rehired. An authoritative source told The Knickerbocker News that present operations of the school faced drastic changes when Dwight Marvin, chairman of the board of trustees, declared that the teaching staff included "low-grade workers at high-grade salaries."

It was further disclosed that Mr. Marvin took issue with George E. Holliday, acting director of the institute, in what the chairman termed the latter's "perseverance and insistence" in keeping the present staff.

The Knickerbocker News learned that Mr. Holliday has submitted his resignation to the board. The acting director, however, while admitting he has tendered his resignation, would discuss the matter no further, pending action of the board.

The institute, formerly known as the Veterans Vocational Training School, had been in operation 11 years until last July 31, when state aid, under which it had functioned, was stopped. The school was then reorganized as a community college, with funds being supplied by students, counties in which students reside and the state.

A total of 2,880 students, mostly veterans of World War 2, were given technical training. Present enrollment at the institute is 88.

Members of the board of trustees, appointed by Governor Dewey include: John O. Amstutz, Mr. Marvin, C. Leonard J. Ager, Jr., Lester C. Higbee, Oliver F. Lang and James A. Shaunessy, all of Troy; J. Wesley Wood Jr., Eagle Mills; Hyman Rosenblum, East Schodack, and James M. Braham, Hoosick Falls.

G-E Expects Decrease in Employment

The General Electric Company expects employment at its Schenectady works to drop by several thousand in the next three years.

This was disclosed last night by President Ralph J. Cordiner at a Chamber of Commerce dinner celebrating G-E's 75th anniversary.

Apparently taking cognizance of unconfirmed reports 10,000 persons were to be lopped off the G-E payroll here, Mr. Cordiner said:

"I would be less than frank if I did not express my belief that we are now in a period of abnormally high employment in this area as a result of the Korean war."

"By 1957 our employment in Schenectady can be expected to return, gradually, to the normal levels of 1946 to 1950."

G-E employment in Schenectady is about 40,000.

Police Court Clears Television Troubles

As the story came out in Police Court today it was little wonder Onofrio Zirpoli, 49 Albany St., had been having trouble with his television.

He had his next-door neighbor, Mrs. Loretta Denn, 53, in on a charge of destruction of property. Zirpoli claimed she tore down the lead-in wire to his television antenna with a rake.

Mrs. Denn, who lives at 51 Albany St., pleaded guilty and was placed on probation for a year, provided she pays for the damage, which Zirpoli said was $9.

Schenectady Police Ask Pay Boost

Schenectady's 156 policemen are seeking an across-the-board pay increase of $270 a year.

The boost was asked by the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association in a petition to the Common Council, which is scheduled to consider it at a caucus tomorrow night.

Frank Barrett, president of the association, said the patrolmen are finding it hard to get along on their present base pay of $3,500, which was supplemented this year by a $230 cost-of-living adjustment.

Crory Appointed To Albany Post

John C. Crory, retired newspaperman, was named by Mayor Corning today to the Municipal Civil Service Commission, succeeding the late Edward J. Riley.

Mr. Crory, also a member of the Albany County Civil Service Commission, lives at 59 Academy Rd. He is an enrolled Republican and Albany Port commissioner.

Other members of the Municipal Civil Service Commission are Walter L. Collins, chairman, and T. Emmett Ryan, secretary. The county group includes John J. McNulty Sr., chairman, and Mr. Ryan, secretary.

Albany Firm's Bid Low For School Furniture

A low bid of $9,891.07 was received today from Albany Supply & Equipment Company Inc. for desks, chairs and cabinets for the addition being built to School 20, N. Pearl St.

The only other bid received by the Board of Contract and Supply was $12,544.59 from J. C. Olesen Seating Company, Troy. Award of contract awaited the board's study of the bids.

Goodwill Couple Going to Holland

Albany's goodwill ambassador to The Netherlands, Jan G. Vieweg of 612 Chatham, and Mrs. Vieweg are leaving tomorrow for another visit to Holland.

Mr. and Mrs. Vieweg will sail from New York aboard the Pyndam of the Holland-America Line on a trip of five to six months.

They will visit Mr. Vieweg's relatives in Albany's adopted city of Nijmegen and carry Mayor Corning's greetings to Nijmegen's Mayor Charles Hustinx.

Mr. Vieweg also will visit other cities of Holland and Western Europe as a member of a newly formed committee preparing an exhibit of Dutch influence in Albany and the Hudson Valley. The exhibit, including a moving picture of Albany and vicinity, will tour The Netherlands under sponsorship of the State Department.

Members of the committee, in addition to Mr. Vieweg, are Mayor Corning, City Historian Julius J. Heller and representatives of the Albany Institute of History and Art, the State Commerce Department and other state agencies, including the state historian.

Mr. Vieweg, owner of the Embassy Publishing Company in New York City, is a native of Nijmegen, where his family has long been prominent in the publishing business. He was chairman of the Albany-Nijmegen Committee of 1948-49, which sent a shipload of Albany gifts to the Dutch city.

Nassau Man's Estate Listed As $133,356

Charles R. Parks, Nassau, left a gross estate of $133,356, according to a tax appraisal filed in Rensselaer County Surrogate's Court.

Mr. Parks, who died May 21, was a retired treasurer of the North American Cement Corporation of New York City. His wife, Mrs. Helene O'Fee Parks, R. D. 2 Nassau, is the sole beneficiary.

Pair, Parted In '51, Plan To Rewed

An Albany fireman will be married for the second time Saturday to the girl he took as a bride in his more youthful Navy days.

A ceremony at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church at 4 p. m. will reunite Richard Manss, 24, of 200 Kent St. houseman with Engine 6, and Jean H. Manss, 23, of 105 N. Allen St., typist with the Boston Insurance Company.

The couple was married Mar. 16, 1949 in Norfolk, Va., where Mr. Manss was serving in the Navy. They lived together six months and then went separate ways. She obtained an annulment of the marriage effective Feb. 8, 1951, from Albany Supreme Court.

Mr. Manss was on duty today and could not be reached for comment, but Mrs. Manss recounted the story of their getting together again. "He called me up about three months ago," she said, "and we had a date. We started to see each other again and decided to re-marry. I think we're a little older now and we'll stick together. I'm thrilled."

Mr. Manss has a week off for a motor trip with his bride, after which they plan to live at 105 N. Allen St.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Haupt, 509 Washington Ave., and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Manss, 200 Kent St. The best man at the wedding will be the bridegroom's brother, William Manss, whose wife will be maid of honor.

St. Mary's Eviction Actions Started

Eviction proceedings were started in City Court today against 74 families remaining in the state-owned St. Mary's Park emergency housing project.

The actions were filed by the firm of Hinman, Straub, Pigors, Manning & Tynan as counsel for Joseph R. Heavey, managing agent of the project.

The first 15 cases are returnable next Wednesday. Forty-six are scheduled in the next three days. The last 13 will be heard the next week.

Move No Surprise

The court move came as no surprise to the tenants, who were notified last spring they would have to vacate. The project, erected after World War 2 from surplus military barracks, was to have been closed years ago, but its life was extended twice by the Legislature.

The 1953 Legislature ordered closing of all such emergency projects in the state as of Sept. 30, with a provision for 30-day extensions in cases of necessity.

All 74 eviction suits noted that the tenancy was on a month-to-month basis, that the tenants had been served with formal notice to vacate and that the tenants had been holdovers since Sept. 30.

Many Families Have Moved

More than 100 families have moved out of the development since the State Division of Housing first announced the project was to be closed. The state offered to turn the project over to the City of Albany, but the city rejected it as unnecessary. The buildings are to be razed.

A few of the tenants facing eviction may find homes in the new city-federal North Albany housing project. An official of the Albany Housing Commission pointed out today no more than a third of the St. Mary's tenants come within the maximum income limits for the North Albany project.

McGovern to Address Siena College Forum

State Comptroller McGovern will speak Friday at the social science forum at Siena College.

He will discuss the state's pattern of receipts and expenditures at a meeting in Gibbons Hall. He will be introduced by Assemblyman John W. Tabner, Albany County Republican.

Delmar Woman Killed by Auto; Sister Injured

A Delmar woman was killed and her sister was injured critically last night when they were hit by a car while crossing New Scotland Ave. in the rain.

Fatally injured was Mrs. Harry Berman, 62, of 42 Adams Pl., Delmar, the former Eva Friedman of Albany.

Her sister, Miss Gertrude Friedman, 60, of 29 Sparkill Ave., was taken to Albany Hospital suffering a compound fracture of the left leg, head cuts and severe shock. Her condition was listed today as critical.

Appeared Out of Dark

The car was driven by L. Richard Fried, 41, of 63-D Weis Rd., who told police the two women walked in front of his car in New Scotland Ave. near Norwood Ave. about 8 p. m. In the rain and darkness, he said, he did not see them until a moment before the car hit them.

Mrs. Berman was thrown forward by the impact, landing in the middle of the street. Miss Friedman was knocked to the right side, near the curb.

Both women were taken by ambulance to Albany Hospital, where Mrs. Berman was pronounced dead on arrival.

The two sisters had been visiting at the home of a brother, Alick Friedman, 2 Harris Ave., proprietor of the Fountain Grill in New Scotland Ave. They were crossing New Scotland Ave. from the south side to the north on their way to a friend's home when they were hit by the eastbound car.

Nearby residents summoned police and ambulances. One of the first persons to reach the scene was the Rev. John B. Mea, administrator of St. Teresa's Church.

Driver Questioned

Fried was questioned by police of the Sixth Precinct for several hours before he was released. His car was impounded for further investigation.

A verdict of accidental death was issued this morning by Coroner Roman Campion.

Mrs. Berman, a native of Albany, was a member of Congregation Sons of Abraham and for many years was president of its sisterhood. She was a contributing member of the Jewish Home for the Aged and a member of the Jewish Community Center, Senior Hadassah
